

CITY GOVERNMENT USES SIX DEGREES FOR ON-GOING SECURITY ADVICE AND PROJECT MANAGEMENT

Client Profile: Government Entity L is a suburban city with a population of over 45,000.

Business Challenge: Limited budget and resources were seriously hampering the city's ability to make informed decisions regarding data security. The absence of a chief security officer meant that city officials were left to make decisions without expert advice.

Solution: The city hired Six Degrees to meet periodically to review and discuss security issues and, if needed, implement changes. Six Degrees first accessed the city's security infrastructure and helped to develop a security program. This included teaching city personnel about security maintenance such as patch management and acceptable-use policy.
